That Trip Overseas

Much Reduced Fares Are Expected When Boats Resume Service

By Frank Swanson in Ottawa Citizen (Continued from page 1) Today, which is not different from that experienced by thousands of Canadians during the war, soon will begin to return to pre-war standards. In dry docks and graving basins at ports around Britain's coastline, miniature armies of workmen are busily engaged in restoring war-torn ships to their pre-war state of elegance and comfort. By late September or early October, there is expected to start regular passenger runs in the North Atlantic service between New York and the battered ports of Europe.

Coincident with the reconversion of some of the world's most famous liners out of their anonymous coats of battle-gray, plans are being drawn up for new and more modern ocean greyhounds. So far, most of these plans are still in the blueprint stage, but their ultimate realization will foreshadow the shape of ocean travel of the future.

One company has plans for the construction of two liners of the 20,000-ton class and with speeds of 22 knots, which would carry 1,000 tourist passengers and 500 cabin passengers at a one-way fare from New York to Britain of $40 for tourists and $80 for cabin-class passengers with meals extra, or a choice of adding $10 to the tourist fare and $20 to the cabin fare for an all-inclusive rate.

One of the features of these two ships, which together would form what would be known as the Atlantic Line, would be cafeteria service for passengers to cut down the overhead cost of the trip. The cafeteria proposal gives an indication of the streamlined terms along which ship owners are thinking these days in their efforts to cut down the pre-war trans-Atlantic fare which was the stumbling-block in bringing ocean travel down to the level of the pocketbook of Mr. and Mrs. Average Citizen.

Realizing the appeal post-war air travel is bound to have, owing to the immense time saving involved, shipping interests in this country are examining the feasibility of construction of new liners of the Queen class. Opinion is that no further ships of this size will be constructed since the passenger demand for Europe from North America is a hazy one at almost certainly lost to the air lines. The problem, therefore, is to find another type of passenger to replace him, but at a much reduced fare.

It will take time before the North Atlantic passenger services return to anything like pre-war normality. In the meantime, the person anxious to cross the Atlantic must travel in troopship accommodations, in an army atmosphere of austerity and of constant streams of orders issued practically around the clock over loudspeaker systems, but with the knowledge that he is lucky to be there at all because of the huge waiting lists on both sides of the ocean which have piled up during the war years.

When travel does become easier toward the end of the year, and with next summer's anticipated record tourist rush to Britain, for which bookings are already beginning to pile up from all parts of Canada and the United States, the world should get some indication of what post-war ocean travel will be like in the face of air competition and an almost universal demand for a cheaper fare.

CATTLE KILLED BY LIGHTNING—At Acton, Ont., 21 registered Jersey cows were instantly killed by a bolt of lightning as they huddled beneath a tree on the Cloverdale dairy farm of A. J. Murray. The bark of the tree was shelled by the bolt. Fourteen cows were killed at Colbeck, Ont.

Medical Triumphs

Penicillin Was Given Top Priority During The War

A few years may show that in the balance sheet of a world war the cost in human lives has been numerically offset by the saving of life as a result of medical triumphs in wartime. Penicillin, which spells life for millions statistically condemned to die from specific diseases, is hailed by medicine as the most decisive of these triumphs. Manufacturing Penicillin is the No. 1 medical undertaking of the day in those countries which, during wartime, joined in developing this wonder drug—Britain, the United States, Canada and Australia.

A drug for the first time in the history of war, was given top priority over all other forms of war production in Britain and the United States. The help of the industrial resources of the United States was sought and given on a large scale. Australia drew additional enthusiasm from the fact that one of the co-discoverers with Sir Alexander Fleming was Sir Howard Walter Florey, Australian-born and a graduate of Adelaide University, who were knighted for their work on penicillin. But more especially the project in Australia was spurred by the urgency of the needs of the New Guinea campaign and Australia's position as the nearest supply base for the Pacific War.

Those who are directing production in Australia's Commonwealth Serum Laboratories say the reserves now in hand and the plans for expansion are such that it should not be long before there is sufficient for general use for all purposes.

Penicillin is made today in a $570,000 laboratory completed last year. In terms of penicillin manufacture, it is called mass production, but so great is the production problem of the drug, that a day's yield from the efforts of several hundred workers, skilled and unskilled, fills a single large bottle before being reduced to powder form.

That is a problem that is occupying the attention of Australian, as well as overseas researchers—to simplify and reduce the effort required for penicillin. That, and the vast new field of therapeutics that has been opened to them—Ottawa Citizen.

HEALTH SIGNS

Crossness and irritability are infallible signs that the family doctor should be consulted about a child's health, declare health authorities at Ottawa. Department of National and Welfare officials list these signs of good health: Bright eyes, clear skin, good posture, keen appetite, alertness, vitality and pleasing disposition. Parents they say, will see in these signs, confirmation of medical opinion on a child's state of health.

Man utilizes only about 25 per cent. of the oxygen inhaled in a breath of air.

British Air Liner

Will Make A Tour Of Canada, U.S. And Latin America

BRISTOL, England.—A standard production model of the Bristol 170, first post-war British civil airliner to obtain an unrestricted certificate of airworthiness, soon will tour Canada, the United States and Latin America on a demonstration tour. The plane, first flown last December, now is in quantity production at the Bristol Aeroplane Company plant in the Canadian Northwest since its twin-engines give it ability to operate from small airfields.

Its manufacturers have said they believe it will prove suitable for use in the Canadian Northwest since its twin-engines give it ability to operate from small airfields.

Wild Buffalo

The Last One In Oregon Has Been Shot

ASHWOOD, Ore.—The deer and the antelope still play in Oregon, but no longer will the buffalo roam this great Western state.

The last wild buffalo in Central Oregon was killed recently by members of the Sisters Rodeo Association at the request of Roland Gridley, rancher, who said the old animal had been damaging the Friday ranch near here.

The buffalo was brought into Oregon 15 years ago after original species had been exterminated. The buffalo was shot from horseback by George Wakefield and Vernon Peck who used 20-30 rifles.

REG'LAR FELLERS—Anything to Please

Youth Training

The Need For Discipline Is Greatly Needed

The future of the British Empire rests with the youths of today, who should be given every opportunity to develop their talents and make good, says Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, chief of the Imperial General Staff.

This preoccupation with youth is reflected in almost every speech by the famous wartime field commander now responsible for directing his country's military strategy.

"When the state has no further use for my services I shall devote the remaining years of my life to the work of training youth," he said recently, "so that they may become worthy citizens of our great and glorious Empire."

The goal we should aim at is this: to train our boys to take their proper places in the community according to the abilities of each, so that they will be able to take over from us older men and lead the country in peace.

I mean by this that each boy must be given a chance to develop his own particular talents. He must be taught to be master of himself and captain of his own soul. He must be stilled for lack of opportunity. He must be given a chance to make good. Each boy must be an asset to the nation. In those days we can afford no liabilities."

To the boys themselves—and he has spoken at many school functions since becoming CIGS—the field marshal constantly emphasizes the need for discipline.

"Our future as a nation may hang on leadership and character," he said in one such address last June. "The youth of today have got to be taught discipline. The cause alone without the iron hand of discipline is no good. If that is done we shall be all right."

One way in which this spirit could be inculcated, he said, was while young men were undergoing their compulsory service in the forces. Some 100,000 18-year-olds will be entering the British Army yearly and "our responsibility is surely to arrange that during that time we teach them not only soldiering but also those things which will ensure that we return to civil life better men in every way."

We may teach them leadership, discipline and the true meaning of morale.

A Double Purpose

Applause Does Something More Than Give Singer Confidence

An admirer of the late Erskine Schumann-Heink was congratulating the great singer upon her success in a certain operatic role.

"I suppose," ventured the music lover, "that applause is very important to a singer. It must help to give her confidence."

"Confidence it gives, yes," replied the prima donna in her faltering English. And then with a broad smile she added: "It gives, too, something even more important. It gives a chance for a singer to catch his breath!" — Christian Science Monitor.

ALWAYS FULL STRENGTH, ALWAYS DEPENDABLE

CAN WE PREVENT FAMINE?

That is the heading of an article by Sir Arthur Salter in an issue of "Picture Post" London, England, just sent to us dated May 1946.

As an authority (Sir Arthur Salter was deputy-director of U.R.R.A. 1913-44) he goes on to point out that real famine which may bring starvation to millions now faces a large part of Europe, India and the Far East.

As a unit of measurement applied to every individual the daily consumption of calories is the universal one.

A summary of the chart accompanying the article, gives the food intake of the various peoples at that date. Figures show average daily consumption in calories 1,500 means severe shortage, 1,000 means slow starvation.

U.S.A.	3,000-3,400
South America	3,000
Denmark	2,850-2,900
Sweden	2,850-2,900
Switzerland	2,850-2,900
Australia	2,900
United Kingdom	2,850
New Zealand	2,850
Turkey	2,000
Norway	2,300-2,500
Holland	2,000-2,500
Belgium	2,300-2,500
France	2,000-2,500
Finland	Less than 1,900
Hungary	Under 1,900
Spain	Under 1,900
Rumania	Under 1,900
Portugal	Under 1,900
Italy	1,400-1,600
Bulgaria	Under 1,500
Czechoslovakia	Under 1,500
Albania	1,200-1,700
Austria	1,120-1,440
Greece	1,000-1,200
Yugoslavia	770-1,900
India	1,200
China	1,200
Japan	1,050
Russia	Not known
Germany	U.S.R. 1,250-1,440
French zone	1,120-1,440
British zone	1,015

As these above figures were quoted (in May 1946) there was great hope that crops in the U.S.A., Canada, etc., could be supplied to the hungry, but great difficulties are being experienced from many angles, and the least of which are upset conditions and paralyzed communications in the countries which need the most help.

Even England is rationing bread and cereal grains now. The monsoon rains failed in the East, and no monsoon means no rice which is the food of millions.

"Can we prevent famine?" for those poor unfortunate who did not want war, did not start it, but are to be its victims by the million nevertheless?

Father was furious; his shaving brush was missing.

"Doesn't anybody know where my shaving-brush is?" he thundered.

Dad: "Well, what kind of grades did you make in your finals?"

Son: "All right in everything but one study and in that I am like Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln."

Dad: "Why honey's that?"

Son: "I went down in history."

"I am now engaged," said Professor Bland, "in trying to discover a universal solvent."

"What is it?" asked Stuart.

"A liquid that will dissolve anything."

"What a great idea," agreed Smart, "but when you find it what are you going to keep it for?"

A young girl talking to her grandfather: "Grandfather, how old does a girl have to be to get married?"

Grandfather: "She must be old enough yet young enough, big enough yet dumb enough, weak enough yet strong enough, to chase a man until he catches her."

"What about this 'ere universal disarmament, Bill?"

"Why it's cannon like me and my old woman. When there's a bit of a shindy brewin' the one will prove to be the other."

Junior: "Daddy, what was the date of the Battle of Waterloo?"

Daddy: "I don't know."

Junior: "You don't know? And to think tomorrow I shall be punished for your ignorance."

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

GUARDIAN OF THE LAW

By GEORGE C. CHERNISH

Copyright Wheeler Newspaper Syndicate

THE commissioner said wearily, "Look, Steve, we've got to have action—understand? The crime wave is growing worse by the hour. I know you're busy, but that won't cut us with the mayor. He's demanded results. Now it's our move."

Police Captain Steve Brant leaned back in his swivel chair. Piles of newspaper clippings and photos of wanted men littered his desk. A detailed map of the city was spread out before him.

"These hold-ups are all the same," continued the commissioner, "and pulled by the same two thugs. How they have the nerve to stick around here so long, is beyond me."

"We'll get them," Steve's voice was resolute. "These things take time, you know." Commissioner Drury affirmed. "I agree. But you're taking too long. Far too long."

It can't be helped. We're not miscreants."

Steve's retort died on his lips as the commissioner spun on his heel and left. Steve made a mental summary of the case as it stood to date.

About a month ago, the two men believed responsible for most, if not all, of the current hold-ups, had pulled their first job. Termed the "Black Heads" by the local press, because of their disguise, the sinister pair had ambushed the city. So far, the police hadn't a single clue.

Steve scowled as the phone rang. An irate voice: "This is E. J. Turner, over at the East End Groceries. . . . Say, that new cop you took on sure is a dilly."

"What's your trouble?"

"That cop's nuts. He takes a notion to pick on me about every other day. . . . I'm getting fed up with him."

"The avenging in front of my store is a half inch lower than the by-law allows. . . . He wants to give me a summons."

Steve suppressed a chuckle. "Don't let him worry you, Turner. I'll have him smarten up."

"Good better," abruptly, "I'm seeing the mayor."

Two minutes later, Dr. Kittering, the county coroner, barged in. Steve's features were rigid.

"He shook a stubby forefinger at Steve. "That rookie you hired is absolutely stupid!" he thundered. "Can't you do better than that?"

"The coroner rushed on: "I had to go through a red light on an emergency call, and the young fool trailed me and gave me a ticket!"

"I explained the situation to him, but it didn't mean a thing."

Steve shook his head. "I'll look into it," he promised. "We're short-handed these days, and a lot of fellows we take on aren't grade A by any means."

"You can say that again!"

When the rookie patrolman came in off the beat that afternoon, Steve ran for him. He came in hesitantly.

Steve said sharply, "You'll have to brighten up a bit, Stark. Learn to use your noogie." He explained about the complaints.

"But they broke the law, sir!" the rookie insisted.

"Technically—yes," Steve told him. "In the light of everyday common sense, however, no."

Steve dismissed the rookie, shook his head dejectedly and called it a day.

A week later, Commissioner Drury stalked into Steve's office. "The rookie's back," he announced.

"He's Dan Stark's boy," Steve shook his head sadly. Dan Stark had been his best friend. And before he coughed in, with a gangster's bullet in his chest, Steve had promised to see that his kid got a break.

As the commissioner left, Steve made up his mind. Let them do their own dirty work. Good cops weren't made overnight. They all had to learn.

He rang for a prowler car brought from the garage. This might be his last day; his last chance to view the city from the seat of a police cruiser. Drury was ruthless. More than one cop had learned that to his regret.

As he prepared to leave the phone rang. The desk sergeant was on the line, bubbling over with excitement.

The Black Heads—young Stark caught 'em! He needed help but he gets the credit—later found their weapons, books and all!"

"A marvelous piece of work!" the commissioner was saying. "Who tipped you off, Stark?"

"No one, sir, promptly. I arrested them under Section five. Sub-section two of the city by-law."

"Think—again?" Steve gasped.

"Section five?"

The commissioner looked puzzled. "What's that cover?"

"Spitting on the sidewalk," the rookie said.

Wheat Is Important

But Oats, Barley And Rye Excel It In Gross Value

New nut varieties now being introduced are destined to make oat growing in Canada a safer and more profitable occupation and thus place the crop as such on a still higher level among Canada's great natural assets, said Dr. L. H. Newman, Dominion Cerealist, in discussing Cereals in the Agricultural Institute Review.

While wheat remained the most important single grain by reason of its almost universal use as human food, oats and barley, and to a lesser extent rye, held first place as a group from the standpoint of animal nutrition.

In gross value they actually exceeded wheat to a slight degree. Dr. Newman pointed out, but they did not play a very important part in international trade as they were largely consumed in Canada by farm animals.

In feeding value for live stock, oats held a very high place. They ranked first in popularity as a horse feed and stood high as a feed for cattle. They actually constituted the basis of most of the grain feeds used in Canada and might be regarded as the most important feed grain.

As human food, oats, chiefly in the form of porridge, have always enjoyed wide popularity as a nourishing and palatable food. Ranking high in vitamin B, they were in a position to make substantial contribution to the daily intake of this important vitamin. According to the latest milling returns available, oatmeal and rolled oats had a valuation of $3,745,758.

1 1/2 cups sifted Baking Powder

1 1/2 cups sifted shortening

1 cup sugar

1 egg, well beaten

2 squares Baker's unsweetened chocolate, melted

1 cup milk

1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together three times. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well; then add chocolate and blend. Add flour, alternately with milk, a small amount at a time, beating after each addition until smooth. Add vanilla. Bake in greased pan, 8x8x2 inches, in slow oven (325 deg. F.) 1 hour, or until done. Spread icing on top.

CHEESE WAFFERS

1 cup butter

2 cups grated soft cheese

1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce

1/2 teaspoon salt

3 drops Tabasco Sauce

3 cups oven-popped rice cereal

1 cup sifted flour

Blend butter and cheese thoroughly; add Worcestershire and Tabasco Sauce. Roll cereal into fine crumbs, mix with flour and add to cheese mixture. Shape into rolls 1/2 to 2 inches in diameter; wrap in waxed paper; chill in refrigerator for two hours, or until firm. Slice into wafers 1/2 inch thick. Bake on ungreased baking sheet in a moderate oven (375 deg. F.) for 12 minutes. Sprinkle with paprika. Yield: 60 wafers (1 1/2 inches in diameter).

British Ship Built In 1815 To Be Broken Up

Almost the last of Britain's "wooden walls," the old ship Cornwall—built in 1815 at Gravesend—will be broken up at Gravesend. The ship was built by the shipbuilders of the River Thames and its timber used for furniture. Built in Bombay in 1815, the Cornwall was launched as a 12-gun ship. In 1816, it was moved to London and used as a training ship for boys.

The ship last saw action when a bomb fell near it in 1940, ripping a hole in its hull. The German tales announced that raiders had "severely damaged a British warship," Christian Science Monitor.

Falconbridge Nickel Mines Not Bothering With Low Grade Deposits

TORONTO.—Falconbridge Nickel Mines Limited said it has no interest in a low-grade nickel deposit reported to have been found near Dar Es-Salaam, Tanganyika, and that it is not sending a representative to the area to examine the find.

The official of Falconbridge, which operates a mine in the Sudbury district in northern Ontario, said that C. H. Farrington, mentioned in a Dar Es-Salaam dispatch as the representative of the company who would examine the property, is a consultant who has at times acted for Falconbridge. However, he is at present in the United States and as far as the company knows is not going to South Africa.

Thomas Hardy, Famous English Novelist, Was Fond Of Cats

The great English novelist Thomas Hardy was very fond of cats. Once when two friends from America arrived for tea they found the novelist almost covered with cats. Three or four were on various parts of his person; other cats were near at hand and scores of milk were noticed at different parts of the shabbyery. "Are all these your cats?" Mr. Hardy was asked, and he replied genially: "Oh dear no. Some of them are, and some are cats who come regularly to have tea, and some are still other cats not invited by us, but who seemed to find out about this time of day that tea is being served, as we have the pleasure of their company too!"
